Groups to Protest GOP Corruption; Norquist “Pay-to-Play” Scheme

Despite K Street Scandal, It’s Business As Usual For Abramoff, DeLay, and Santorum Cronies

Members of MoveOn.org Political Action will launch their “Stop Corruption First” campaign Wednesday with a protest outside Grover Norquist’s “Wednesday Group” meeting. The group will be joined by Campaign for America’s Future and the Public Campaign Action Fund – leading anti-corruption groups. Norquist was a principal architect of the now infamous GOP K Street, “pay- to-play” project.

Norquist, with his allies DeLay, Santorum and Abramoff, were creators of a scheme to ensure lobbying firms, most of whose offices are located on K Street, would only hire Republicans and would make large contributions to GOP political action committees and candidates in order to secure passage of legislation for their clients.

WHAT: “Stop Corruption First” Protest Outside K Street Project meeting

WHEN: 9:45 AM to 10:15 AM Wednesday, January 18, 2006
